Meet Two Youth Philanthropists: Leadership Team Members Dhruv Patel and Raquel Barajas

"Why not take the opportunity?"

That is what Dhruv Patel asked by a family member to get engaged with the Youth Philanthropy Connect's \(YPC\) Leadership Team. An 8th grader at Fairmont Private School, Patel has been a member of the Tarsadia Foundation's Youth Board since 2009.

The Tarsadia Foundation was established in 1999 by founders, BU and Pushpa Patel to honor the family's legacy of selfless giving and service. Its mission is to fund nonprofit organizations in the fields of health, education, and economic empowerment. Its Youth Board reviews two grant cycles a year—a summer cycle and a winter cycle. "We get together and decide which organization we'd like to fund," Patel explained. "And we obviously ..." \(Read Dhruv's full profile here.\)

Raquel Barajas posed the question: "You know how people become afraid of things that aren't similar to them so that causes a lot of anger and aggression?" The youth philanthropist from San Francisco plans on changing this cultural flaw plaguing public schools, which leads to widespread bullying and discrimination. She has already started the great fight as a supervisor for Youth Funding Youth Ideas \(YFYI\) and a member of Youth Philanthropy Connect's Leadership Team.

Barajas is a sophomore at San Francisco State University, studying health education, with a focus on community-based health, and Latino studies. Her philanthropic journey started when she was only 15 years old and working for YFYI's sister program, Youth Line—a phone line dedicated just for youth. After being offered the opportunity to join YFYI from there, she became a program officer and took on the tasks of attending site visits, managing budgets, supporting the other youth involved, and creating and facilitating curriculum.

As a high-risk youth herself, Barajas was struggling in school and "falling into the wrong crowd" before she found YFYI. "Being a part of an organization like this really is what made me ..." \(Read Raquel's full profile here.\)

Thank You Minneapolis!

YPC wants to extend a huge thank you to Grantmakers for Effective Organizations, Youthprise, and our speakers for allowing us to make so many meaningful connections at its conference in Minneapolis, MN this past month! We learned so much from our first on-site session with GEO, where youth philanthropists participated in the conference with a special session in which they engaged each other, discussed their youth programming models, and met with conference attendees.

Family Foundation Networking Opportunity in Michigan!

Register now for Shifting Landscape: Legacy Meets Opportunity on June 24 - 26 in Detroit, MI, planned by YPC's very own Danielle LaJoie in her work for Council of Michigan Foundations! This fun-filled weekend of learning and connecting is designed to help you grow within your family foundation and with your peers! Open to families across the US, CMF and Donor Advised Fund members from across the state have thoughtfully designed this program to best help your foundation across generations explore new and old practices of the trade.

Some of the sessions they have in store:

- Legacy or Autonomy: Helping Families Achieve Philanthropic Success Across Generations
- Trends in Family Philanthropy
- Takeaways: What's Next for us as Family Funders?

Registration Deadline: June 12th

Foundation Center Update

YouthGiving.org is officially launching this summer at YPC's 2016 International Youth Philanthropy Conference in Anaheim, CA on July 8th! This website will piece together the story of youth giving programs (more than 700 worldwide!) and the funders who support them by curating case studies, grants data, program information, expert perspectives, news stories, and more. Sign up on Foundation Center's splash page to find out when this new resource for the youth giving movement is live!

The Grants Managers Network is looking for submissions to be published in their summer issue of GMNsight: Advancing Grantmaking—the professional journal of grants management. The theme of this issue is Youth in Philanthropy—signifying an important milestone in the discourse of the movement. This issue of GMNsight is being co-edited by Foundation Center in tandem with the launch of their new website YouthGiving.org.

Your submission should be about some angle of youth grantmaking and ideally would share something directly from your personal experience. All ages can apply, and you do not need to be a GMN member. Deadline: July 31. Click here for more information!

Alan Fox on Youth and Giving

Frieda C. Fox Family Foundation Board President Alan C. Fox recently shared advice and insights with the National Center for Family Philanthropy! Alan uses personal experiences to explain why it's so important to start get children involved in philanthropy at very young ages.

"These future 60-year-olds add a vibrancy, honesty, and technology-forward mindset to our philanthropic efforts that has made us current 60-year-olds more optimistic, more joyful, and more effective."

New Research Reveals the Positive Trend in Giving Rates Through Generations of Families

The Indiana University Lilly Family School of Philanthropy and Vanguard Charitable partnered on this research exploring how giving is cultivated within families. This unique data will allow philanthropists and nonprofit organizations to better connect with donors of all ages to pass along the value of giving.

Some key findings:

- Among high net-worth families included in the study, all three generations gave to charity in 78 percent of them
- Parents and their adult children give in similar proportions to the arts, environmental groups, international organizations and religious causes
- Generation X (born between 1965-1980) are more like to volunteer than Millennials (born after 1981)
